Stroud Lodge, Fraternal Order of Police, is participating in the nationwide Summer highway safety campaign being conducted by FOP lodges throughout the country.

As Russell Decker, Stroudsburg patrolman and president of the local FOP unit, puts it:

"These days, most Americans think nothing of piling the whole family into the car and taking a cross-country vacation trip-and it's our job to help them get back home safely."

The campaign this year is using as its theme, "For Safety's Sake, Stop the dangerous driving days ahead, the for A Coffee Break.

To help motorists stay alive through the dangerous driving days ahead, the organization recommends these safety suggestions:

1. Always be ready for the unexthe world, but you can be as dead as potential hazards ahead and behind.

2. Don't try to drive too far in one day. Break up long trips by stopping at least every two hours for a coffeebreak. It's better to get there late than

3. Keep night driving to a minimum. That's the worst time for accidents. Besides, your vacation will be more enjoyable if you arrive refreshed and relaxed than if you have to spend the first few days of it recovering from a long grind behind the wheel.

These suggestions make sense. We

Deductible Lobbying

Does the right to petition the government for redress of grievances, as protected by the first amendment, support a claim for government subsidy of petitioners? That seems to be the nub of the issue over tax treatment of business or group lobbying expenses-an issue now headed for the house floor in

For more than 40 years the internal revenue service (IRS) has ruled that costs of attempting to influence legislation are not tax deductible as "ordinary and necessary" business expenses. Since congress has never overruled this interpretation, it has acquired the force of law through supreme court decisions.

Last year the court approved an application of the rule to publicity campaigns, costs of newspaper advertisements, etc., aimed at voters in referendums-specifically, in the two test cases, by liquor and beer interests opposed to restrictions on their sales. The court rejected the catchword theory of the opponents that this is "censorship by taxation."

But the IRS thereupon undertook to rewrite its rule pursuant to the decision, and this has raised a storm. For the more precise it tries to be, the more tangled it gets in problems of equity, such as how to treat contributions to unions, trade associations or other groups whose activities include lobby-

Granted that fair application of the existing policy is not easy, still there seems to be no sound reason to go in the opposite direction and say, in effect, that the government itself should help

You as an individual are free to "petition the government"-to go to Washington or send mailings to congressmen or buy ads to argue for a given cause. But you wouldn't expect the government to pay your fare or your hotel or postage or ad bills. Yet legislation affects your pocketbook interest just as surely as that of a business or union or other interest group.

These latter are equally free to petition the government — to lobby as much, as expensively, as their hearts desire. But why should they not have to pay for what they choose to do along Hawaii and Maui . . . Leis are this line, the same as you?

Cites Brutality

Dear Mr. Editor:

In your last Thursday's issue you carried the story of the Araucanian Indians in Chile who after beating an 86-yearold squaw and a six-year-old boy threw their bodies into the sea as a sacrifice to the gods. To us with our humanitarian concept of life the story made us shudder.

The sacrifice of innocent victims is foreign to our thinking: On reading the story I thought of how many people say why should we send Christianity to the heathen? Leave them alone . . . they are happy as they are. The facts are all to the contrary.

Take for example India where their so-called sacred cow eats the food and consumes the milk which ought to be feeding starving men and dying babies. This they do as a sacrifice to the gods of their imagination. Or, take the muslim who feeds on hatred to all those of other faiths. It does matter the kind of ideas we have about God. Wherever Chrisitian missionaries go with the story of God who loves and forgives His erring children only in such places can men be freed from ignorance and fear.

Lurking Behind Scenes

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

The Allen-Scott Report

Washington - Lurking behind-the-scenes in Congress is a big and juicy job-creating bill that is all greased and set to be slipped through shortly before the gavels drop for adjournment. This lush patronage legislation is as remarkable as the backstage deal to enact it.

That arrangement was worked out by President Eisenhower. Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson at an unannounced White House meeting just before the President departed on his Far Eastern Titled "Omnibus Judgeship Bill," this intriguing legislation would create 32 to 39 new federal district judges and 3 cricuit judges in 20 states.

All these appointments carry life tenure; with district judges getting $22,500, and circuit judges $25,500. The measure poised on the House's calendar. ready to be rammed through when Speaker Rayburn gives the word, calls for 32 district judges. The Senate bill ups that to 39. Both proposals specify three new circuit judges. This legislation has been pending for more than a year. Attorney General Rogers has repeatedly urged it be voted to relieve heavily overcrowded judicial dockets. But these pleas and stern admonitions fell on deaf ears all through the 1958 session and, until a few weeks ago, in this one, because - the Democrats flatly balked at creating a large number of judgeships

Republican President. They demanded at least a 50-50 split on these patronage that would be filled by a

On this proposition they got nowhere - until that private get-together between the President, Speaker Rayburn and Senate Leader Johnson.

That turned the trick. In this pow-wow, they agreed on the following:

The President to select Democrats for half of the new judgeships.

The Democratic appointees to be recommended by the Democratic senators of the states that get these judgeships. Should there not be a Democratic senator, then the governor, if a Democrat, would do the picking.

None of these appointments are to be made while Congress is not in session. Purpose of this is to bar interim appointments. That means these jobs cannot be filled until the next Congress convenes in January.

Big Question Mark - During that Congress, President Eisenhower will still have several weeks in office. This gives him ample time to compile and submit a list of these new judges to the Senate for confirmation.

But what happens thereafter is anyone's guess.

The new President, particularly if a Democrat, might strongly disapprove passing up this juicy patronage. He could exert potent pressure to scuttle his predecessor's recom-

Also, the new Senate might have some different ideas on the matter. It, too, could be obstreperous.

In fact, already there are rumbling signs of that.

Supporters of Senators John Kennedy and Stuart Symington are voicing strong suspicions that "political deals" are at the bottom of the agreement to jockey the "Omnibus Judgeship Bill" through in the final hours of this session.

This charge was made by Representative Thomas O'Neill Jr., Mass., a Kennedy backer, and Representative Richard Bolling, Mo., a Symington leader, at a closed-door meeting of the House Rules Committee. This Committee approved this patronage measure, but turned thumbs down on the longpending aid-to-education legis-

"A lot of stories are going around among House members about political deals on this judgeship bill," said ONeill. "I'm not saving they are so, but it's an old axiom that where there is smoke there usually is fire. It's very strange that this measure has been pending through virtually all of this Congress, and now it suddenly comes to life and appears headed for enactment.

Bolling said virtually the same thing.

I have been told by responsible members of the House," said the Missourian, "that there are more political deals in this legislation than in any other before Congress. I hope that isn't so, but there are a number of unexplained aspects to this affair."

As provided in the House bill, the 32 district judgeships and three circuit judgeships would go to the following

District Judges: California 1. Colorado 1, Connecticut 1, Florida 1, Illinois 1, Kansas 1, ouisiana 2, Maryland 1, Massachusetts 1, Michigan 1, New Jersey 1, New York 4, North Carolina 1, Ohio 2, Pennsylvania 4, South Carolina 1. Tennessee 3, Texas 3, and Washington State

JUNE JUMBO SALE TODAY THRU JULY 2nd

Everyone here at Wyckoff's is pleasantly excited by the scheduled visit of Chief Halftown tomorrow evening. THE CHIEF, as he is known to thousands of young television fans, is—you can take the word of any youngster—QUITE A GUY! A GOOD guy.

According to his picture, before me as I write, he is also a very fine looking man, with sturdy teeth, bronzed features, and a headdress of feathers and beads that is truly a sight to behold. His apearance on a Monday thru Saturday television show from noon to 12:30, and his Sunday appearance from 10:30 to 11:30, represent a vigorous schedule . . . and one that has earned him a multitude of faithful young followers. Even greater, perhaps, is the devotion showered upon him by youngsters whom he has visited in hospitals, orphanages, and such throughout his eight years as a WFIL-TV star.

His store of entertainment is great and varied. His ceremonial attire is intriguing . . . and he can sing in a fine tenor voice . . . dance . . . tell fascinating stories and facts about outdoor life and tribal customs. All in all he is quite a charming fellow, and I am sure there will be adults galore, as well as children, who will wish to meet him, watch him, and get his autograph.

His visit at Wyckoff's is scheduled for Wednesday evening, 7 to 8 o'clock only, in the shoe department.

I must remember not to walk through the girls department anymore. It would be far less expensive (even though more tiring) to go down the stairway from the offices to Main Street, for every time I go thru I see marked down shorts, or new, delightful, inexpensive dresses my daughter could use. One of my latest purchases is a dear little dark blue with solid skirt and print bodice that will be a pretty dress for "back to school." Which reminds me THAT is the next thing on a parents' agenda!

Many thanks to Mrs. Heiney of Stroudsburg, R.D.; Mrs. Jesse Flory of East Stroudsburg; several more who remained anonymous, and Miss Nan Reid, my neighbor. Someday I think I'll start a travel fund, asking all of my readers to please send me a quarter. Wonder if I'd get any results? I have already suggested to Edith Jacobsen and a few other friends from Hadassah, that they sponsor another fashion show to send me to Israel to see the square foot of space they gave me in the new Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center! Seriously though, I would love to someday visit the Holy Lands, and feel certain many of you share this wish. Maybe our Wyckoff Travel Bureau should plan an excursion for a time far enough away to accommodate our piggy bank!

Have you shopped our JUNE JUMBO SALE as yet? The values are splendid, so hurry and do so! Wyckoff's is opening each day this week at 9:30, and closing tonight, Thursday and Saturday at the usual 5:30 . . . Wednesday and Friday at 9.

Dear Abby: Some friends invited my husband and me to dine at a roadhouse cafe. The four of us ordered steaks. Just as I started to eat mine I noticed a dead fly on it. I pushed it back and asked my husband to order me another one. He refused and traded steaks with me. I told him he shouldn't eat it either, but he said it didn't bother him. I lost my temper and we had a few words.

By this time people at other tables were taking it all in and started voicing their opinions. Some were with me and some were with him. Our host insisted on ordering another steak Do you think I was wrong to mention the dead fly? Or should I have brushed it off and eaten the steak anyway? SQUEAMISH

Q. I recently sold some stock when I bought it. What method may I use to claim this loss when I file my Federal income tax form for 1960?

A. You use Schedule D of your Federal income tax form to report the transaction as a capital loss.

Schedule D has to do with profits or losses from the sale of capital assets. At first reading, it confuses a lot of people. But, after you read it a few times, you will soon see term or long-term capital gains or losses.

Q. You have written that it is important to get a financial statement of your broker's business. I am in business (not the brokerage business) and none of my customers has ever asked for my financial statement. Why is it important to get a financial statement of your broker's business?

A. Hold on now. I never wrote that it is all-fired important. I simply reported that a rule of the New York Sock Exchange is that member brokerage firms must provide financial statements of their business when and if customers ask for such statements.
